DISPUTE OVER COUNTY TICKET. Strong Kick Against Dooley and Kauf-

The Democratic Assembly district leaders in Brooklyn met last night to consider the makeup of the ticket. Senator Mc-Carren and the representative of each district were present. There was a unanimous indorsement of the selection of Herman A. Metz as the candidate for Comptroller, and it was arranged that Assistant Corporation Counsel William Hughes should make the nominating speech in the city convention. The list of names presented for the presidency of the borough included ex-District Attorney James W. Ridgway, Arthur S. Somers, Arthur O'Keefe, James Tully, ex-Congressman Edward M. Bassett and John H. McCocey. The mafority of the district leaders expressed a strong preference for Ridgway, and his nomination was regarded as practically settled. The proposed renomination of Register Matthew J. Dooley and County Clerk Edward Kaufmann, which Senator McCarren was understood to favor in the interest of harmony, provoked strong protests re-spectively, from Michael E. Butler, who deposed Dooley from the leadership of the Twelfth district at the recent primaries, and Henry F. Cochrane, who maintained his hold in the Sevent senth district in spite of Kaufmann's opposition. Butler declared of Kaufmann's opposition. Butler declared that the Democracy of the Twelfth district resolutely objected to Dooley's renomina-tion, and Cochrane was equally emphatic that his constituents in the Seventeenth would not stand for Kaufmann.

A resolution was finally adopted referring the make up of the entire county ticket to Senator McCarren. Cochrane alone voted against this resolution.

WANTED A STRAIGHT DEMOCRAT. Uproar in Convention When Republican Was Named for Mayor.

NEW ROCHELLE, Oct. 3 .- The Democrats of this city at a convention in the New Theater to-night nominated Rochelle George W. Sutton, a Republican, for Mayor. The nomination almost caused a riot as many delegates were in favor of a straight party candidate. When the nomination was made John Healy took the floor and shouted:

"I consider this nomination a most humiliating thing. It means as Democrats we are making an open confession that we have no man in our ranks who is fit to govern. I like to see principle in men, and I would rather lose with a good honest Democrat than win by open repudiation in the Democratic caucus."

Mr. Healy's words caused great confus on, Mr. Healy's words caused great confus on, and amid the uproar he placed the name of John A. Agar before the delegates. Healy then presented the names of two other Democrats, but the convention refused to consider them and proceeded to nominate Sutton. The nomination was greeted with mingled cheers and hisses. Born in Cuba, He Won Fame and Place in French Academy as Poet.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN PARIS, Oct. 3.—José Maria de Heredia, author, poet and member of the French Academy, died to-day.

Heredia was born in Cuba in 1842. Two other poets of the same name and con-nected with his family have a respectable place in Spanish literature. He was brought up in French schools and graduated from the Ecole des Chartes in Paris. Having independent means he was able to devote himself entirely to poetry and to write and publish as little as he pleased, and owing to his great fastidiousness his literary output is not large.

Heredia's college days coincided with the Parnassian" movement in French litera-ture. He attached himself to Lecomte de Lisle and was by far his best pupil. To a thorough command of the French language he joined the exuberant fancy and stately diction of the Spaniard, and had acquired diction of the Spaniard, and had acquired reputation as a poet through reading his verses in salons and occasional poems in magazines before the first volume of his poems was published. This was "Lee Trophées," which appeared in 1893 and was crowned by the French Academy. In these the care for style and the return to classical models stand out in marked contrast to the products of the various eccentric schools of verse.

In 1894 he was elected to the French Academy, being the first person to attain that honor who was not of French origin.

MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP TALK. Perplexing Problems to Come Before the Civic Federation To-morrow.

Since the National Civic Federation decided some time ago to appoint commissions to investigate municipal ownership in the United States and Europe, it has discovered that the subject presents more complications than was at first supposed. A conference was called, which begins tomorrow in Columbia University and will last for two days, to appoint the commissions and give them instructions how to

It was announced yesterday at the headquarters of the federation, 281 Fourth avenue, that the following questions in relation to the investigation will have to be settled before the commissions receive instructions:

their instructions:

Shall the foreign inquiry confine itself to such public utilities as gas, water power, electric power and lighting and street railways?

Shall it include Government ownership of railroads, telegraph, telephone, parcels post, postal saving banks, &c.?

Shall it further include what comes under the general head in England of municipal trading, such as municipal markets, abattoirs, bakeries, laundries, opera houses and tenements?

Among those who will attend it.

Among those who will attend the con-ference will be many heads of railroad and other quasi-public corporations. A few of the employers are in favor of municipal ownership, but the great majority are against it. Municipal ownership would mean among other things the application of the civil service rule to all employees.

RAMSEY SUES GEORGE GOULD.

SEERS TO PREVENT WARASH ANNUAL MEETING.

Asks an Injunction Under Missourt Law Preventing the Control of a Competing tine by Another Batternal Save He Owns Watsatt Houds and Stock.

Sr. Louis, Oct. 4. Joseph Ramsey, Jr., president of the Wabash, filed an injunction cuit to-day against the Iron Mountain and Wabash Railway companies, the Mercantile Trust Company of New York, Walter S.

Wilson, H. M. Walker and George J. Gould. Ramsey asks an injunction preventing proposed annual meeting of George Gould and associates at Toledo, where it is proposed to elect a board of directors and president to control the Wabash Railroad. He alleges that the one result of this meeting would be to stifle competition in traffic between the Wabash and Missouri Pacific between St. Louis and Kansas City.

Judge Taylor issued a citation ordering the defendants to appear in court next Friday to show cause why an injunction should not be granted. Ramsey sets out that he owns $50,000 par value dependure bonds of the Wabash, class B, and 100 shares of capital stock.

The Missouri Pacific Bailway, he says, holds 20,000 shares of Wabash stock; Iron Mountain holds 65,000 shares of preferred stock, and $5,435,000 par value of debentures, these shares all being held in trust by the Mercantile Trust Company, Wilson, Walker and Gould, he says, owns and controls a majority of the stock of the Missouri Pacific ity of the stock of the Missouri Pacific, and controls a majority of the stock of the Iron Mountain.

Mr. Ramsey said yesterday that the injunction had been asked for on the ground that the Missouri law prevents one railroad from controlling through ownership of stocks a parallel or competing line. It is possible that the suit may postpone the annual meeting, which is scheduled for next Tuesday, at which the contest for control of the road will be decided.

one of the contest for control of the road will be decided.

Mr. Ramsey said yesterday that the Gould interests hold only about 12 per cent. of the cutstanding stocks and debenture bonds of the Wabash Railroad and that aside from Russell Sage there is not a Gould director on the board who has a Gould director on the board who has more than enough stock to qualify him.

No trace of any survivors has been discovered, and it is feared all hands on board sixty-four in number, were lost, including the Spanish officers of the ship. One American passenger was the inventor of a hemp machine. He was accompanied by his partner, also an American. They were taking ten of the machines for practical field trials.

The reports that continue to be received indicate that the recent typhoon did enormous damage to the crops and warehouses and to the villages in which the field laborers lived. The hemp trade in some districts, it is stated, will be paralyzed for several years. To-day dealers would not risk quoting prices.

BUDAPEST CONFERENCE TAME.

Coalitionists Again State Their Grievances and Demand Answer from the King. Special Cable Despatches to THE SUN. BUDAPEST, Oct. 3.-Compared with expectations, the conference held here to-day was very tame. It was not, as the organizers originally hoped to make it, a great demonstration by all parties in favor of nationalism, but was merely a big coalition gathering, from which the Liberals were absent. Nevertheless, it was unanimous and carefully avoided anything likely to increase the tension, for which reason the public was excluded.

A resolution was adopted recapitulating the grievances of the coalitionists, justifying the leaders of the party in refusing to form a Cabinet, and demanding an answer from the King to the party's address;

The speakers supporting the resolution were moderate in their language. Francis Kossuth, who presided, read a manifesto he and Count Apponyi had framed to issue to the nation. It rehearsed the Hungarian position, and appealed to the people not to tire of fighting for their national rights.

The day passed quietly.
VIENNA, Oct. 3.—The King to-day gave a long audience to Baron Fejervary, acting Hungarian Premier, and M. Kristoffy, acting Hungarian Minister of the Interior. It is reported that the latter, who explained in detail his suffrage scheme, gained his Majesty's favorable consideration for its main features, although it is regarded as improbable that he will sanction universal suffrage. If the report is true it will probably save the situation in one direction, while embittering it in another. His Majesty will give another audience to the Ministers to morrow.

Meanwhile the racial antagonism between the Czechs and Germans is dividing attention with the Hungarian party strife The scene to-day in the Reichsrath was an indication of the violence of the passions dividing the nationalities in this distracted country, although it must always be re membered that the bark of these perpetual antagonists does not necessarily lead to
